recipient of the Lawrence M. Goodman Scholarship

“Because of this scholarship, I have been able to continue pursuing my dream of becoming a physician who can give back to the communities that gave so much to me.”

My name is Natalia Beadle, and I'm a third-year medical student who grew up in West Palm Beach, Florida. I earned my undergraduate degree from the University of Miami, where I studied neuroscience. I decided to attend the University of Florida College of Medicine because of the incredible support of the community. During the interview process, there was a sense of mutual respect and encouragement that drew me here.

I chose to pursue a career as a physician because of the simple fact that I am only here today thanks to the amazing physicians I've had in the past. I hope to care for others in a similar way in the future, and I plan to specialize in obstetrics-gynecology.

I would like to take this opportunity to say how immensely grateful I am for your generosity in contributing to this scholarship. Not only is it a source of financial support, but a symbol of encouragement and emotional support as well. After school, I hope to provide great medical care to others and your assistance will greatly help me in achieving that goal. Thank you!
